

Freedom or honour. What would you choose?

Marrying Ameera is Rosanne Hawke's new young adult novel to be released on 1st August by HarperCollins. It is a story of forbidden love and the gulf between cultures as seen through the eyes of Pakistani-Australian teenager, Ameera Hassan. Seventeen-year old Ameera has just finished school, and her friendship with Tariq, her best friend's older brother, is growing. But when her Pakistani father hears of it, he sends Ameera to stay with his family in Azad Kashmir to attend her cousin Jamila's wedding. It takes her less than a week to realise the devastating truth – the intended marriage is not Jamila's but her own! Ameera has a tough decision to make: will she choose freedom or honour?
